

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any initiatives allowing cell phone use on airlines. My business requires that I travel extensively. To allow cell phone use on an airline flight 1) scares me due to unknown potential aircraft system interference and 2) just because it plain annoys me. My personal space is invaded EVERY SINGLE day. Having someone sitting right next to me yakking while on an extended flight is just plain wrong.

If this is approved then I will be left with assuming that my government is only interested in promoting change just so someone can make a lousey dollar. That IS what it boils down to. More cell phone minutes mean more profit for the cell phone service providers.

Please reject this proposed change.

Stevan D. Martin, LCdr, USN, (Ret.)
8269 Calle Nueva
San Diego, CA 92126